ABOUT ME

Hello! My name is Jessica. I am an ambitious, independent woman with a caring and compassionate heart. Despite earning a master's degree and having a successful career in nursing, my true passion is spending time with my family and friends. From a young age, I always envisioned myself having a family of my own, and I am enthusiastic to begin this new journey. In addition to priding myself on keeping a tidy home, I enjoy traveling, listening to music, keeping up with the latest fashion and beauty trends, experiencing the ambiance and cuisine of new restaurants, and serving as a mentor to prospective and current nursing students. Several times a year, I travel to North Carolina to visit my best friend and her family. I love creating memories and sharing special moments. I am looking forward to celebrating birthdays, special occasions, and milestones with my future family.

MY HOME & PETS

I have a kitten named Timmy, and I also adopted his mom, Callie. Although Timmy is energetic and inquisitive, he is gentle and affectionate. Callie is very affectionate as well and waits anxiously to be picked up and petted. I have a four-bedroom home in a quiet neighborhood. There are several playgrounds nearby, and just a few blocks away is a recreational park, which includes a tennis court and three baseball fields. There is also an elementary/middle school within walking distance.

WHAT LED ME TO ADOPTION

After learning of my infertility, I began to consider other ways of becoming a parent. After investigating several options, I determined adoption is the best fit for me. I have always admired the relationship between parent and child. Because I have so much love in my heart to give to a child, I am looking forward to experiencing all aspects of parenthood. This includes not only loving my child but also nurturing, supporting, and teaching them right from wrong in the hope of instilling positive values. Of all the goals I have set for myself, the only one I have not achieved is becoming a mother. By adopting a child, my life will have more purpose, and it will complete me.

my family AND traditions

I am extremely close with my mother and father, with whom I share constant communication, both in person and by phone. I had a very happy childhood filled with love from all four of my grandparents. My last surviving grandparent is my 91-year-old grandfather. He is caring and still active. I have many loving cousins, and

I especially keep in touch with one who lives in Texas. I have three aunts, whom I love dearly, and one of my aunts is also my godmother. Given that some of my older family members do not get out as much as they used to, my mother and I prepare food and take it to them to ensure they enjoy a hot meal for the holidays.

EXPECTANT MOTHER,

Although we haven't met in person, you are undoubtedly one of the bravest women I have ever encountered. The unselfish decision to consider me as a potential adoptive parent for your child is not taken lightly, and I feel privileged by your consideration.

I can provide a safe, loving, and nurturing home for your child as a trained medical professional. Your child will receive competent care, both physically and emotionally, throughout every stage of their development. With patience, consistency, and love, I will be wholeheartedly devoted to providing your child with the best life possible.

From the day I enter your child's life, I will support their unique abilities and talents, which will equip them with the self-esteem and confidence to be their best.

I am deeply humbled that you took the time to get to know me a little better. I pray you find peace and reassurance in your journey. Regardless of what decision you make for yourself and your baby, I appreciate you and wish you only the best.

With Love,

Jessica
