about us

Hi! We are Mitch and Beth. We met at church while attending the same bible study group. We were friends first, but didn't start dating right away. After about six months, Mitch asked Beth out, and we have been best friends and in love ever since. We like doing anything together, but our favorites are watching movies, going for drives, and playing board games. We laugh a lot together, and we like to hang out with our family and close friends. Beth is the outgoing one in our relationship and rarely meets someone she can't talk to. She also really likes doing creative things like painting or calligraphy. Beth also enjoys teaching kids, cooking, and baking, which Mitch especially appreciates. Mitch is the quieter one, unless he is watching his favorite sports teams; then he is very passionate! He also likes being outside, whether delivering mail or doing yard work.

We live in a small town in the Midwest. Our home has a big yard with lots of flowers and space to play. Our street is a dead-end, so it is quiet except for kids playing. We have several parks within walking distance for lots of options to play. When we bought our home, it was a priority to us to make sure it was in a good school district. The grade school and middle school are about five minutes away. Our town has lots of community pride and a historic town square where they do live music and food trucks every week during the summer. One of the best old-school doughnut shops is only two minutes from our home, and we get doughnuts as a special treat before church.

what led us to adoption

We talked about having a family while dating as it was something we both really wanted. We also talked about possibly adopting as this was something that had been on Beth's heart from an early age. We started trying to have a baby naturally and struggled with infertility. After 2.5 years of testing, medicine, and surgery, having a baby naturally just wasn't happening, and we felt like God was reminding us we had also been open to adoption. We started looking into adoption, and it just felt like this was the path God had planned for us. We can't wait to share all the love we have with a little one.

our families + traditions

Mitch has a large extended family. We get together as a large group a few times a year, and it always includes lots of food and board games. Mitch's mom and stepdad only live about 20 minutes away, and we see them often for meals or bonfires. They are very excited to welcome another grandchild and can't wait to babysit! Mitch's brothers and their wives live farther away, so we do a video call with the whole family once a month and try to get together in person as much as possible. At Christmas, one of the family's favorite traditions is when Mitch's mom asks each person what their favorite cookie is and then bakes each one!

Beth's family is much smaller. Beth's parents and brother still live in her hometown, which is only 15 minutes away, and we see them once a week. Beth's parents are extremely excited to welcome their first grandchild, and Beth's dad has already said he wants to get a pedal tractor for our child since he grew up on a farm. Beth's sister lives a few hours away, but we talk or text all the time and visit as much as possible. One of Beth's family's special traditions is to read the story of Christ's birth from the Bible on Christmas morning.

dear expectant mother

Thank you for taking the time to consider us to be the lucky adoptive parents of your baby. We admire the love you have for your baby that has allowed you to consider adoption. This is such a sacrifice and a life-changing decision, and we do not take that lightly.

We want you to know, if you choose us, your baby will be so extremely adored and loved not only by us but by our families as well. Family is a big priority for us. Our parents and siblings are excited and ready to welcome a new baby into the family with open arms. We are excited for all of the new memories and joy a child will bring to the family.

Your baby will be raised in a Christian home that values friends and family and a relationship with God. We pray for you and your baby nightly, asking God to bless you and comfort you. We hope you know what an honor it would be for us to raise your baby. Your baby will always know about you, how much you loved them, and how strong you were in choosing adoption. Our goal is to keep in contact with our child's birth family, if they choose. We want them to know their story.

Thank you for considering adoption and taking your time to learn more about us. We pray you find peace in your decision.

Warmly,

Mitch + Beth
