ABOUT US

We met in May 2018, and we have been married since August 2020. We are a fun-filled family that loves to go and do but also loves to kick back and have a Harry Potter marathon at the house. We love to laugh and enjoy all that life has for us. We have enjoyed watching our son's stock show, the family trips, and time spent together. We both work full-time and are passionate about what we do. For the last ten years, Bretton has been building power lines. Jordan is an OR nurse. Our everyday activities consist of working and then heading outside to work with our son and his show animals. We wrap up each evening with dinner together as a family. On the weekends, we enjoy golfing and going to the lake as a family. One of our son's favorite things is to go fishing.

WHAT LED US TO ADOPTION

We always knew we wanted to grow our family. The discussion of having a child naturally or adopting was something we have always wanted. We tried to grow our family naturally and battled with infertility and loss. However, we did not allow that to define our family. Our aunt and uncle had great success through adoption, and we spoke with them often. This opportunity came to us at just the right time. We feel so led to adopt and believe this with our whole hearts.

OUR HOME & PETS

We have the privilege of living out in the country. Our home was made for a big family. We love living in the country, which allows us to have our cattle, chickens, our goat Lilly, and two dogs, Laila and Blue, who all have unique personalities. We live about five miles outside of a great small town. Our small town is very community and agriculturally driven. We have fun festivals and events throughout the year that get the community as a whole involved.

our family

traditions

Bretton comes from a big family. He has an amazing mom and stepdad with two sisters and one brother. He has eight aunts and uncles who all live close by. He has the privilege of getting to work with his brother each day. We are very close with his family. We take multiple trips a year together as well as get together for big family holidays.

Jordan comes from a smaller family. She has a loving mother and stepdad who are only a short, 30-minute drive away. She also has a younger sister who lives in the same town as her parents. Her mother was an only child, but there is a group of close family friends who have filled the shoes of aunts, uncles, and cousins. We are all very close and see each other weekly.

Being a part of a smaller community, we have developed many friendships that have blossomed into so much more than friends. They are family and are involved with our lives daily.

Dear

EXPECTANT MOTHER,

Where do we start? The heaviness of the decision you are making as a mother is unimaginable, and we cannot begin to understand. The courage you have to carry this sweet life to term and to then trust another family to love and raise this sweet baby is honorable. Trusting us with this precious child would be a dream come true. You would be granting us the opportunity to be parents again and the opportunity for our son to be the best big brother he so dreams of being.

We can make a solemn promise if you choose us: Your baby will never go without love, support, kindness, or understanding. In this home, we exhibit unconditional love with arms wide open. Your child will be surrounded by family and friends who love and support them as well. We will give our future child all the world has to offer, from a wonderful education, family trips, family game nights, sporting events, and stock show events.

If given this opportunity, we look forward to experiencing life with this little one. The hardships may be difficult at times, but as a family, we will lean on each other and push through. We look forward to sharing a life with this baby while making new family traditions and keeping some of the old. We look forward to our son moving into a big brother role and all that he will teach his younger sibling. If chosen, we will be honored and forever grateful for your gift.

With Love,
Bretton and Jordan
